now in full color our expanded and updated version of meeting anne frank an anthology continues our exploration of the personal influence of anne frank and her sister margot none writing here actually knew anne frank personally but we believe we have met her in the eighty years since she died she unites us here at a time when so much of the world continues to be riven by the familiar but divisive themes of extremist politics anti semitism and prejudice to meet anne requires one to focus both on who she was as a talented lively funny and warmhearted daughter and also on who she represents as an involuntary spokesperson for all the lost dreams and promise of the 15 million children who died during the holocaust or shoah we will though be meeting four writers who knew anne s most adorable father otto and they have shared their recollections in this volume joop van wijk voskuijl who has kindly written the foreword for us is the son of bep voskuijl who was famously responsible for helping those in hiding in the secret annex and for establishing a warm and close friendship with anne many of our reflections will pay tribute to the beautiful city of amsterdam anne frank came to love the dutch and the netherlands and she looked forward to becoming a dutch citizen after the war she died stateless instead anne frank has become variously the sister mother wife daughter girlfriend or best friend to each of us writing for this anthology and to millions across the world we pay tribute to the many annes who have survived in our thoughts and ideals sometimes we have wanted to talk to the anne who was a gregarious opinionated impulsive and fun loving teenager while at other times we have wanted to listen to the anne who was a talented and observant writer or to the anne who was serious self critical and idealistic and who grew in maturity and wisdom while in hiding she was a child while she lived freely in the comparative safety of life in and around merwedeplein amsterdam and only a young teenager when she died with margot in a nazi concentration camp for the simple crime of being jewish anne frank wanted to go on living after her death in february or march 1945 and i hope meeting anne shows how her wishes and voice have been heard in unique inspiring and instructive ways we may be walking where others have gone before us and where others will surely continue to do after but i hope along the way we will have shown that you can always see something different if you want to this is the story of anne frank who with her family went into hiding during the nazi
